aiming at a five-cent car fare by changing the Public Control Act.

LEGISLATORS SIGN

The Boston American's wonderful petition met with a universal response. Its thousands of signatures do not represent any particular class or locality, but all of Greater Boston. Even the legislators themselves added their names on this remarkable document.

Here are the State Legislators who signed the American's petition for five-cent carfare:

Representative Francis F. Byrne, Boston; John Mitchell, Hingham; and H. W. Bullock, Springfield; William S. Conroy, Fall River; William H. Hearn, Boston; Hugh J. Campbell, Roxbury; Frederick S. Chase, Hingham; Joseph D. Toomey, Boston; Orest L. Brennan, Lowell; Warren Daggett, Somerville; Frank J. Burke, Boston; Coleman E. Kelly, Boston; William Kenney, Boston; George Corbano, Boston; Edward Carey, Framingham; Brockton; Fatalestin, Boston; James J. Mahon, Boston; John W. McConnel, Taunton; J. Dwyer, W. P. Hilder, Edward Cox, William H. Bennett, William H. Hannagan, Boston; Thomas J. Corbett, Lowell; Joseph L. Larned, Everett; John J. Heffner, Boston; C. Sullivan, Boston; Frankenstein and William J. Francis, Boston; F. H. Hines, Concord; J. Driscoll, James A. Goode, Boston; Michael H. Jordan, Lawrence; Charles W. Corbett, Worcester; James F.weeney, Holyoke; Patrick J. McSheehy, Boston; David D. Daly, Lawrence; Jeremiah J. Healey, Natick; John P. Heffernan, Boston; Senator Thomas P. Donovan, F. H. Green, William H. McDonald and John J. Carey.

BE AT STATE HOUSE

Are you petition-signers going to be at the mass meeting today?

Are you going to see the Boston American automobile petition truck back up to the State House door and the petitions with 150,000 signatures carried in?

You better be. It is on this great fight, this winning fight for five-cent fare.

All aboard for the State House. Here is a letter from a car rider in addition to signing the petition. I would like to call your attention to the fact that Washington street is deserted from Kneeland to Northampton street owing to the Boston Elevated service. Neither business men nor workers along Washington street and Harrison avenue are getting service. The five-cent fare line should take and sell transfers for five cents extra, the Uphams Corner line should take transfers for five cents. These cars should be run every five minutes. I write this after careful study of the situation. I pay the Elevated $12 weekly.

John J. Swift, No. 17 Dathan street, Dorchester.

PUBLIC INFLUENCE FELT

It is evident from the attitude of the members of the committee on Rules of the House of Representatives, headed by Speaker B. Loring Young, that much depends on the strength of the showing by the public at the hearing today.

Several members of the committee on Rules when they called their attention to the bill replied that they would have "nothing to say until after the hearing."

Representative McCormack of Boston and Representative Harrington of Fall River, the former having introduced the first car fare bill, had no hesitancy in declaring themselves as heartily in favor of it, and will vote for its admission to the House of Representatives.

Young and the representatives Achin, Shattuck, Kintison, Jewett and all members of the committee on Rules, said that they preferred to wait until the hearing today.

Representatives Wragg, Sawyer and Mays, members of the committee, have already expressed their

Gov. Cox Seeks Just Way to Lower Boston Fares

HERE is what Governor Channing H. Cox said about the five-cent fare:

"I am greatly interested in the matter. I am attempting to ascertain the actual condition of the road. I am studying the suggestions which have been made in an effort to determine whether the claims are possible of fulfillment. No person would be more glad than I to see lower fares. We must not lose sight of the fact that the cost of operation must be met. It is our duty to provide that the burden shall be borne equitably between the car rider and the taxpayer."

selves in favor of the five-cent carfare.

TWO OPPOSE BILL

There are two members of the committee on rules who say they are opposed to the admission of the bill. They are Representative John C. Hull of Leominster and Representative Frank L. Brier of Dorchester.

Representative Hull says: "I am opposed to admitting the bill for two reasons. First, the Legislature is about to adjourn and this matter is too serious to be considered unless simple time can be given for its careful consideration; second, I believe the railroad situation in Boston and vicinity is complicated and that time should be given for improvement before the remedy is changed."

"GROUP MEDICINE" DOCTOR IN PROTEST

St. Louis, May 25.—The possibility that a group of physicians and specialists of the American Medical Association in convention here, would withdraw and form a separate organization which would not restrict the practice of "group medicine," was announced.

5-CENT FARE OPENS PARKS TO POOR

"Five-cent car fare on the Elevated line would be a Godsend to the poor people of the city," declared Dr. David J. Johnson, Institutions Committee of the city. "It would enable them to go to the parks, to the museums, to the places of interest, more than they do at present in the open air."

"The doctor continued: 'of the hundreds of poor people I lead down the harbor at the Long Island harbor, because of no fault of their own. Why ask the relatives, friends, or neighbors to pay for them?'"

"Make it easy for them with a five-cent fare to see many of the shut-outs frequently than they do, so that they can get a little more sunshine and that time should be given for improvement before the remedy is changed. A five-cent fare will help in this respect very materially."

BOON TO CHILDREN

"Take the beautiful Boston State Park. When completed, it will be the largest breathing space in the country, better it is expected to be than Atlantic City. With a five-cent car fare it will be in reach of all."

"It will afford many times more than a day of rest with plenty of sunshine and bathing for the children. With the five-cent car fare it will be inaccessible for many of them to see the park. This one or two visits each year. With a five-cent fare they could make daily visits to the parks, playgrounds and beaches."

"It would be a wonderful benefit to the children, especially. They could have it to become strong and able citizens. Then again it would be quite a saving a week to the very poor. They could save enough for an extra quart of milk, which would add materially to their general health."

OPENS WAY TO PARKS

"By all means let us have a five-cent car fare if only for the benefit of the mothers and children of the city; make it easy for them to reach the play centres of our great city, both seashore and parks, and then watch the great improvement in the health of our present citizens and the future generation."

"With the car fare at half the present cost, the poor, especially those who are obliged to live in the congested sections of the city, would have an opportunity to visit Franklin Park and other recreation centres, of which Boston has many, after a day in hot, stuffy offices and workrooms of our big office buildings and factories."

MRS. GETTIGAN 6 DEAD, 25 HURT IN ELECFAST OUTBREAKS

DEATHS OF HER EX-HUSBAND

Mrs. Myrtle Gettigan and John Proquette, Maine farmer, formerly his hand and wife, came face to face in the corridors of the Suffolk County courthouse today.

She was there as a loyal helper of J. Thomas Gettigan, who is on trial for the life, charged with murdering his son, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cook of Maine, and committing to his uncle, the late Clinton Richardson.

Proquette was there in the role of a witness for the State, the nature of his testimony being a secret. It was their first face-to-face meeting since the trial began. The result was an exchange of hot stares and not even the least of bows.

It was the first dramatic touch, Gettigan on his trial before Judge Angus A. Dubouche and a jury.

Mrs. Gettigan divorced Proquette some years ago, years before she married Gettigan, then a grocer's clerk, living in Haver and working in Melrose.

Dr. William F. Boos of the Harvard Medical School was the principal witness for the State. Dr. Boos was called to corroborate the statement of Melrose physician George B. Magrath that Mrs. Cook died from arsenic poisoning and from peritonitis, arsenic as stated in the death certificate.

Dr. Boos' testimony showed that the arsenic had been given the aged woman through the mouth.

"I never knew of a case where arsenic had been administered orally," he testified. "I never knew of a case where arsenic had been administered orally. The doses given Mrs. Cook were unusually large."

A post-mortem examination of the deceased woman's organs showed conclusively, Dr. Boos said, that arsenic had been administered orally. Mrs. Cook, although he admitted Mrs. Cook's case was an unusual one, said he was not sure, but he thought it was arsenic.

Asked if the pains in Mrs. Cook's stomach could have been from arsenic, he said he did not think so. He said he had seen a picture of the bedroom where when Mrs. Cook exclaimed to her sister, Mrs. Richardson:

"I never felt like this before," he said, "strongly to believe that she must have been something unusual and irregular to cause such an unusual outbreak. He said Mrs. Cook's continuing thirst was another suspicious thing, and a point similar to the conclusion that her illness was not from natural causes."

Dr. Boos testified that arsenic could have been administered in tea, soup, or other food before death. GIVEN IN LIQUID.

It could have been given within ten or fifteen minutes of death, he said. Asked what method could have been used in giving the arsenic, he said Mrs. Cook could have been wrapped up in bed, her mouth opened and a spoon containing the arsenic forced behind the tongue.

He was inclined to believe it was a liquid solution of arsenic, which could have been given with water, milk or some other beverage.

1,000 Additional Police to Fight Chicago Crime

Chicago, May 25.—What the authorities claim was the greatest blow against organized crime in Chicago was delivered when the City Council voted $4 to $5 to add 1,000 patrolmen to the police force.

Charles Fitzmaurice, chief of police, made a personal plea before the council.

"I have only 1,400 men traveling beats," he said. "There are 2,400 police on traffic duty. With 1,000 new men I can scatter about 40 men to each station in the residential districts."

The new officers will be selected from the ranks of former soldiers, the chief said.

There are indications of increasing anxiety, and even alarm, and the suspicion that the agreement between the police and the underworld is being broken. The Times and Daily Mail emphasize that Great Britain will never tolerate the exportation of crime.

The refusal by the United States, Sir James Craig, to participate in the boundary commission provided for under the treaty is sharply criticized, and this development is regarded as further compelling the British government to take action.

The Westminster Gazette warns Sir James that Great Britain's voice must be heard on the question, as it would be more fully for the English ministers to insist that Collins adhere to the treaty, if they admitted Craig's veto.

QUEER MARITAL PACT BARED IN SUIT

By RUTH DATTON.

New York, May 25.—An extraordinary matrimonial agreement was revealed in the Giff-Patterson case, being Justice William F. Burr.

William S. Giff, broker and former newspaper man, is suing Evelyn Park, his wife, for divorce. Park, who is married six years ago at the Little Church Around the Corner, for $15,000. Giff alleges that Park represents his share in stocks, bonds, jewelry and house furnishings that he entrusted to his wife before he sailed for Europe on a business trip. But when he returned a few months later he found his wife had divorced him and married a handsome young athlete, Raymond Bennett of Chattanooga, Tenn.

GILL SUED HIS WIFE.

It was learned for the first time that Giff, after his disappointment in not finding his wife at the pier to meet him and finding his valuable goods, filed a substantial suit against Mrs. Park for divorce, naming Bennett as co-respondent.

In contrast to this state of the case, correspondence was exhibited in court showing that Giff had given his wife the right to get a divorce and marry again, and that he had also reserved the same privilege for himself.

A letter written from the steamer Lafayette on his voyage over, reads in part:

"I could never repay you for what you've done for me. I must make some great sacrifices for me. I know I can trust you while I'm gone, for you have always been a good girl. If you find anyone else you

Trials Are Tough When Farm Work Isn't Done

"Durn these trials anyway," John Poquette from Bremen, Me., waiting three days to testify at the trial of J. Thomas Gettings, accused of poisoning his aunt, impatiently stamped up and down the corridor of the Criminal Court Building.

"Cows in the barn," he said, "cause my fences are down. I'll have my time of his life losing, and no down here just a humming. No wonder livin's high."

like better than you do me. I will arrange for a divorce and I reserve the same right."

Letters were written in kind to respond to those of her husband on May 11. Mrs. Giff secretly completed publication of the summons in her divorce suit. The last of these letters was in answer to a letter from Giff asking her to join him in Europe as soon as possible. This she wrote after her divorce action was instituted.

FRENCH PROBE CRASH OF STEAMSHIPS

Paris, May 25 (the Associated Press).—The government will be interrogated in the Chamber of Deputies on the circumstances surrounding the collision between the British steamship Egypt and the French freighter Seine, it was announced by Deputy Guesnier, president of the merchant marine committee of the Chamber.

The two American missionaries, Mrs. M. L. Riley and Miss V. M. Boyer, reported missing, are still unaccounted for. No further bodies have been recovered.

While the white officers on the Egypt exhibited heroism and self-denial after the crash, as is shown by the large percentage of them missing, the sailors of the crew, according to rescued passengers, lost their heads completely.

A Mrs. Hansen told the Boston correspondent of the Paris Daily Mail that after she had been washed from the deck of the Egypt a number of sailors drove her from a cupola boat on which she tried to climb.

Mrs. Taylor of Gloucester, England, told a similar tale. "The sailors ran about the ship, shouting and struggling with each other to get into the boats," she said.

WIFE HINTS FOUL PLAY IN HUSBAND'S DROWNING

Mrs. Charles Daw, of No. 24 West Quincy street, West Somerville, whose husband died in a shipwreck floating in the river at the Chelsea town bridge, is firmly convinced that her husband either met with an accident or foul play, Charles Daw, the dead man, was forty years old, and, according to Mrs. Daw, was a quiet, home-loving man. About a month ago he went to France to do some work. The body was identified by Mrs. Daw through a memorandum book and other property.

3 NEAR DEATH FROM FIRE IN NORTH ADAMS

North Adams, May 25.—Police headquarters were destroyed by fire today, two prisoners, in locked cells, almost killed, and Police Captain Frank Jones was severely injured when he jumped from a second-story window. The captain sustained burns and a broken leg.

The prisoners, held on minor offenses, were rescued by firemen only after they had been driven out of the smoke-filled building three times.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It had been burning some time in the rear of the building. It is believed, before one of the prisoners, weakened by smoke, cried out an alarm. Captain Jones was asleep on the second floor.

Attempts by firemen to reach the building failed. He jumped to the street and was taken to a hospital.

The loss to the building and fire and police signal system was estimated at $25,000.

Police headquarters today were established in the fire house next door.

GIRL ACCIDENTALLY WOUNDED BY BULLET

Hartford, Conn., May 25.—Miss Gladys Clark, seventeen years old, of No. 274 Main street, is at the hospital here today suffering from the effects of a bullet wound just above the lower left leg, inflicted by accident by a former schoolmate and fellow office worker, Ernest Houghton, also seventeen.

Miss Clark was having lunch with Houghton at the home of his sister, Mrs. Alice Waters, and they were talking over their plans for the Fourth of July celebration, when Houghton jumped up to show the girl a revolver he said he had used last year.

Only 5 Per Cent. of Merchants are Dishonest

Washington, May 25.—Only 5 per cent. of the merchants of the United States are dishonest, Secretary Hoover told the conference on weights and measures at the Bureau of Standards today.

"The 95 per cent. that are honest are helpless against the 5 per cent. that are not, unless you provide and enforce accurate standards of measurement," he said.

"It is your duty to protect not only the public but the honest producers against the crooks."

OFFICERS FAIL TO BRING BACK LAWYER

State Detective Michael J. Barrett and Sergeant John McCauley of the Winchester police returned today from Quantico, Va., without Private John Lawhorn, marine sharpshooter accused by Charles Tindall, alleged thief and discharged marine, of the murder of Ralph W. Brewster, station agent of the B. & M. at Winchester.

Barrett and McCauley reported to District Attorney Endicott P. Ballou that the marine authorities had refused to surrender Lawhorn and that the accused marine probably would return to the Charleston Navy Yard tomorrow or the next day under a guard of fellow-dissidents.

Immediately after their arrival at Cambridge the two officers had a conference with Special Officer Frank McLaughlin, who obtained the statement from Tindall upon which the warrant for Lawhorn's arrest is based. The nature of this conference was kept secret.

Lawhorn denied the shooting and appears to have a perfect record.

Brewster was murdered between 1 and 10 o'clock on the night of April 26. Navy Yard records show that Lawhorn was on guard duty at the Navy Yard main gate between those hours. He went off duty at 10 o'clock. Brewster's body was found with two bullet wounds at that hour in the little ticket office of the Winchester depot.

Tindall, who is in East Cambridge awaiting trial, says Lawhorn told him six months ago he intended to kill the railroad station agent and seal the receipts.

But Mrs. Mary Ann Deamus, a sloping bride of a former marine who met Lawhorn frequently in Winchester, where she was employed as a telephone operator, said today she believed that Lawhorn was three months ago when he came to keep an appointment with her.

Despite these and other discrepancies in Tindall's story and Lawhorn's apparently perfect alibi, Winchester police believe Lawhorn will be brought to trial.

ADAM AND EVE BUILD REAL LOVE NEST

Copyright, 1922, by Carl A. Sutter.
Eve Brook, Me., May 13.—(Today's Boston Advertiser reporter) swinging along through the untracked wilderness fifteen miles from here and the nearest railroad track back the well remembered words of a "love nest" song.

It was Mrs. Margaret Sutter the modern Eve, who with her husband, the modern Adam, is living the primitive life in the wilderness without clothes, weapons, food or fire. She sang just as the birds sing when they awaken in the clear morning air from sheer blissfulness of spirit. Despite the hardships of a life in which the Sutters are pitting their brains and skill against the relentless forces of nature, Mrs. Sutter was happy.

A REAL LOVE NEST.
And when the reporter fought his way through the entangling underbrush and burst into a little clearing he understood, too, why she sang. For there facing across a wide panorama of rolling forest land he found the Sutters' love nest. There were no ramblers rocks or tea sets and the dream room was also the kitchen and the dining room, but it was a love nest if there ever was one.

It was at Mr. Sutter's invitation that the reporter traversed those weary miles through the forest with an automobile packed swifter at his waist. "Come out and see our new home," Mr. Sutter had said, and the reporter and photographer took him at his word.

Mrs. Sutter smilingly greeted the advertiser man and made a charming if unconventional hostess. She was not clad in the approved morning costume. Indeed, her sole garment was a skirt of birch that had a bad habit of not staying, but she was completely at ease and very proud of her new home.

PROOF AGAINST FEISTS.

The hut is not very completed, but it has some semblance of a domicile and is proof against the attacks of wild beasts and wilder insects which are thirsting for the blood of the weary traveler. In building the love nest Mr. Sutter utilized a handful of broken tree trunks and piled them against the side of the hill. In front are two tall spruce trees growing together. The opening between these trees constitutes the doorway to the unusual love nest. Between the trees Mr. Sutter has built a stone fireplace, and the visitor must step over the flames and smoke to enter the hut. Inside the semi-darkness is at first alarming, but afterward is a pleasant relief to the glare of the sunlight outside. A thin curtain of smoke rises from the fireplace and provides an effective screen to the ravens' inroads.

THE simple daytime and the sports costume make a habit of using stripes in their trimming, and a look above, by the, a no exception to this manner of rules. The creamy gray wool fabric has a design in self-color woven in the blouse, while the stripes on the gray skirt ground are of green and black.

THE mode that likes to combine two fabrics in one frock is presented in an afternoon dress of dark blue crepe de chine, having its yoke and loving sleeves of pink blue mousseline.

PLEA FOR BABES MADE BY MISS ROBERTSON

Washington, May 25.—(Representative Alice Robertson, who has steadily defied women's labor laws, found herself lost in the crowd on the floor of the house.)

Miss Robertson was not representing women's organizations when she made a stirring appeal for passage of this legislation. Her plea was for the babies.

"I come to speak for the babies," she said, "the little babies that are not blessed with their own mothers' milk. Are you going to let them have the Italian article? Shall we let commerce starve them in this country as they have starved in Europe because of the war?"

The bill under consideration, introduced by Representative Volpe, of Wisconsin, and favorably reported from the agricultural committee, proposes to put an end to the manufacture and sale of condensed milk and other imitations which do not contain the better fats found in pure milk.

A vote will be taken today. Considerable opposition was voiced by some of the Southern members.

MISSING MAN'S BODY FOUND IN HARBOR

The body of Charles Daw, who disappeared from his home at No. 24 West Quincy street, West Somerville, on April 22 last, was found floating in Boston harbor, near the Charlestown bridge. The body was badly decomposed and police say it had evidently been in the water for a month.

Daw, who was forty years old, lived with his wife, Florence, and their two small sons. On April 22 he accompanied a fellow workman to Haverhill to do carpenter work, and left for home about 7 o'clock in the evening. It is believed that he fell from the narrow gauge ferry.

John Hopewell, 35 years old, of South Boston, was captured by Police Officer Spear of the Mattapan station after a chase which led through several streets. The young man was held for alleged attempted larceny of insurance from the till of the McLaughlin station store. While McLaughlin was insuring out a quantity of grain, Reynolds, it is charged, lifted the cash drawer.

BONUS BILL TO BE PUSHED THIS WEEK

Washington, May 25.—Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee were served with specific notices by Chairman McCumber that they must get busy right away and agree upon the terms of a soldier bonus bill.

McCumber told his associates he would not be a party to further delay in reporting a bill, and that unless members of the committee chose to give some attention to the subject he will report forthwith to the Senate the bill drafted by him as a modification of the House bill.

McCumber also announced that he will call the entire committee together some day this week, probably Friday, to discuss the soldier bonus legislation. It is evident that unless the Republican members decide to assist him in getting a suitable bill together, McCumber will ask for the votes of the Democratic members of the committee in order to get his bill into the Senate.

It was announced by McCumber that the plan of submitting the question again to the President in order to obtain his views on the bill has been abandoned. The bill in some form or other will be reported to the Senate with previous consultation with the President. It is understood.

to the Senate with previous consultation with the President. It is understood. McCumber's instance upon action on the bonus question was prompted by reports from the country of dissatisfaction over the delay, which has characterized the handling of the bonus bill by the Republicans in the Senate. Several months ago the leaders promised that a bonus bill would surely pass at this season.

CASES PUSHED BY 'PULL,' SAYS MCGAFFREY

Patrolman George F. McGaffrey, formerly attached to the Health Department, returned to his attack upon the department as it is administered by the Curley administration. Speaking in City Court, he charged that two cases he originated when he was working while in the Health Department had been half heartily prosecuted recently for political reasons.

The cases were those involving Paul Mendello of No. 278 Hancock street, charged with practicing without a license; and the Tevere Public Market, charged with sales of dead poultry improperly put to market. Both defendants were in court today, and although McGaffrey is now at the Roxbury Crossing station as an ordinary patrolman he appeared on the stand, as he made the original complaints.

Mendello was found not guilty, but the market management was found guilty and fined $25. "For political reasons these cases the heads of the politicians in bringing these defendants into court," were not pushed by the existing health department, McGaffrey told the court, "but I've gone over

WIFE'S COUNSEL RAPS NELSON'S PARENTS

Winston, Vt., May 25.—Closing arguments will be heard today in the $50,000 allegation of affection suit brought by Mrs. Nellie R. Nelson against her husband's parents, Thomas R. Nelson, "State King" of West Pawlet, and Mrs. Kate W. Nelson.

"If Thomas Nelson acted in good faith in separating himself from his wife Nellie, so does the devil," declared Attorney John W. Redmond, attorney for the plaintiff in his argument to the jury.

"If Thomas Nelson acted in good faith, did the serpent in the garden of Paradise," reaffirmed Attorney Redmond. "For the parents have treated under solemn oaths that Nellie Rudolph Nelson was everything a man could desire in a wife."

"If they separated that couple, as I believe the evidence proves they did, then it was double, damned, distilled wickedness."

"Nellie Nelson is entitled to compensation for her mental suffering, for her humiliation, for the three years of agony, for she suffered as only a delicate nature can suffer."

"I ask you to return compensatory damages and also exemplary damages, for the purpose of making an example of such a man in the community, that the holy state of matrimony, so sacred that some churches mention it by the title of sacrament, may be respected."

Attorney Redmond attacked the credibility of the testimony of Homeny, Thomas and Kate Nelson. "Homeny charged that Nellie Rudolph Nelson, seduced him into marriage, yet he wrote her: 'I wish I could marry you tomorrow.'"

EXPECTED SOUTHERN BELLE. "Mrs. Nelson expected her daughter-in-law to be some Southern belle who would astonish the citizens of West Pawlet. In her amusement at finding Nellie otherwise, she told her she was not what she thought to be and even examined her strip the night she first met her at the hotel in New York."

"While Homeny defended, while father Nelson defended Nell, that Kate Nelson, kept up her devilish machinations."

"Nellie was a good angel. Good angels do not want to leave heaven. Nellie was forced out of the Nelson home because of malice," Attorney Redmond charged.

"Fifty-four years, thirty of them as the mother of two sterling young men, have chiseled their lines of character in the face of Robert Healey, former judge of the Supreme Court, counsel for the defense, in his arguments to the jury of Mrs. Kate Nelson."

DEFENDS MOTHER-IN-LAW. "They have left the records of her life. Attorney Redmond asks you to look into the face of that mother, look into it to see malice and evil. I ask you to look into the face and see good. Give credit that any mother should be accused of harboring malice."

"Father Nelson took this couple into his home when he had no obligation to do so," continued Attorney Healey. "Homeny was fifteen years old when he married, a mere lad in preparatory school, clad in short trousers."

Was such a marriage destined to be successful and to last? The couple of the jazz palaces do not grow in love with the passage of years. The couples that have children, endure the sorrows of life and bear the responsibilities of the home are the ones whose love is built together indissolubly with the flight of years."

BLAMES ROMNEY ALONE. "This trouble is between Homeny and his wife. The one here has no part in it. Had this couple lived anywhere else, in any other town, in any other home in West Pawlet, they would have quarreled. They did quarrel when they went away from there. They quarreled in an automobile once over a heated house."

"Friends, relatives, old grandmother Nelson, Dr. Bush of New York, all testified they urged Homeny to become reconciled with his wife, but to no avail."

Even these will look almost like new!

Will Not Carbonize or Foul from Oil!

Yes—extraordinary as it may seem—we are talking about a sparkplug, the BG, which at last enables motorists to get away from the plug cleaning bugaboo and at the same time greatly increase ignition efficiency.

The porcelain and firing points of the BG are always clean because each spark produces a blast of flame which keeps every particle of foreign matter off the porcelain and points. (See details in panel below.)

More Power With Less Fuel

The intensity of the BG spark-flame calls for a lean mixture—an economical mixture—while the proper combustion of the gas means greater power and easy starting.

Ask your dealer for the BG and note the difference that a clean porcelain, clean firing points and the BG spark-flame make in the performance of your motor.

The BG Corporation

136 West 52nd Street, New York

Always ready for perfect ignition, the BG spark-flame, in addition to cleaning the porcelain and points, carries the ignition right into the heart of the combustion chamber and results in a quick, powerful explosion of the gas, with corresponding pep in the motor.

How the BG Obtains Its Results

The "hot spot" disk heat in an instant and, with the electrodes and porcelain, is at a temperature that highly vaporizes the gas and oil at the sparking points and inside the plug chamber. When the spark occurs, the vapor in the interior of the plug, which forms a primary combustion chamber, burns cleanly, and the instantaneously increased pressure results in a spurt of flame into the cylinder. This action prevents carbonization of the porcelain, cures the sparking problem and compels quick and complete ignition, with maximum power and fuel economy.

The BG self-cleaning plug for solution means a longer life and more dependability. They are plugs for the modern plug efficiency in your automobile motor.

SAMMY AND HIS PALS

Copyright 1922, Max Cramer

It was a superb morning in May. The air was sweet with the perfume of orchids, gardenias and century plants, and all around could be heard the liquid notes of nightingales, bulbuls and woodpeckers. Yeah, you oughta been there. Our old friend Sam and his little chum, Goggles, were having a smoke on the front steps when suddenly the gate opened and John the Jolly entered, accompanied by a job lot of frothy looking strangers. "Sam, dear old chap," he said in a hoarse voice, "we've come to invite you to take a and in our activities. 'Ave you got any wild victuals in the 'ouse?' "John," said Sam firmly, as he seized a large broom and pushed his visitors out of the yard, "if you panhandlers come in here again I'll set the dog on you!"

Isn't this feeling about tires pretty universal

MOST car-owners intend to have a car that is getting more and more fashionable. Economical operation is getting more and more fashionable. How many men do you know who won't expect tires to do their share of the saving?

This is the year for tire-merchants to study their customers closely.

The makers of U. S. Royal Cords have recently stated what is the biggest opportunity to serve in the tire business.

U. S. Royal Cords cannot take care of all the people who want the upward quality in tires.

Nor do they claim a monopoly of all good tire making methods.

The makers of United States Tires were upon everybody—manufacturer and dealer alike—a new kind of competition. Let us compete for more and more public confidence. Let us compete for higher and higher quality. Let us compete for still more dependable public service.

STATLER TO FIGHT FOR HIS RIGHT TO NEW BOSTON HOTEL SITE

STATLER TO STARTLE BOSTON WITH HIS BIG SUPER-HOTEL! IT ALSO SEEMS, however, that he has also startled rival interest, who threaten to bring suit, charging prior option on the land involved. The structure will contain 1,200 rooms, almost enough to house an entire community. Unheard of luxuries will be provided. "Foot-proof" keyholes, automatic clothes pressing and shoe-shine service, and mayhap, a radiophone in every room. The land alone, owned by the New Haven road, will cost $1,750,000. The outlined structure above suggests the enormity of the hotel.

No—advertising is not an exact science yet but it is making progress

Progress isn't a journey it is only a step at a time

Progress is of great importance it's the difference between sluggish inertia and vital activity

Advertising has been making constant progress—more progress in the last ten years than ever before

Three landmarks in the progress of advertising for the past half century have also advanced and immensely raised the standards by which all business is conducted

These three landmarks are a part of the assistance given to business betterment by advertising

The first of the landmarks was given by that American merchant prince A. T. Stewart when he advertised that in his store the one price system had been adopted.

Today—the one price the “cards on the table” method of doing business is well nigh universal in America

The second landmark was given to advertising and to business by another merchant prince John Wanamaker who first advertised “money back”

Almost all business today is transacted on the “money back” principle

The third landmark was given to advertising and to business ten years ago when the

In system there is strength, since the various elements are organized units to support the whole structure. Here is pictured the Merchandising Service Department of The Los Angeles Examiner.

Associated Advertising Clubs of the World promulgated “truth in advertising”

These three great forward steps in advertising have benefited business as a whole

In newspaper advertising a recent forward step has been the creating in a number of cities of a Merchandising Service Department by forward looking newspapers which believe that advertising and selling and window displays and merchandising should do team-work and go hand in hand

The Merchandising Service Department of The Los Angeles Examiner has been developed in the last three years to a high degree of perfection

In order to make it proficient it is divided into departments and put under the control of an experienced merchandising advertising man

His assistants are a picked crew who have had experience in selling merchandise

Your attention is invited to the chart printed hereon

It tells in concise and precise language just what the Merchandising Service Department does

Here the co-operation given to the advertiser is a very real and genuine aid especially to the new advertiser who comes to this market and may not be acquainted with the local customs and habits of the retailers in his line of business

There is the dealer-contact work this is vital to the success of the campaign

These Examiner Merchandising Service men know their dealers—know them well they have visited them many times they have talked with them about store-keeping methods and how to make window displays how to attract and serve their customers and how to make their investment and labor pay a profit

In this department is published a trade paper called the Southwestern Retailer in which are reproduced advertisements which have appeared in The Examiner

There are articles on the product being advertised giving selling talk to the retailers giving them information about the goods which they could not otherwise obtain

There are prizes offered for the best window displays and every month these prizes encourage hundreds of dealers to make window displays of the goods advertised in The Examiner

These Merchandising Service men by their personal contact get dealer co-operation on the broad principle of the helpfulness they are rendering to the individual merchant

Then there is the advice on the sales campaign However much your salesmanager may know about the general principles of merchandising and marketing there are always new things to learn in a new trade territory

There is the trade survey which goes in advance of the introduction of the merchandise

It tells what your competitors are doing and what you may hope to do in this market

It gives you definite and specific information obtained by an unbiased organization and these trade surveys are of great value to advertisers

Here is assistance for salesmen—your salesmen

The territories are assigned and route lists furnished so that the men may see as many dealers as possible in the shortest time and with the least trouble

There are daily reports furnished the advertiser of the progress of his campaign in this territory

Have you a commodity to introduce in this prosperous and rapidly increasing trade territory

Or have you a product already sold here which is not increasing in volume as it should

Send your advertising to The Examiner and enlist the active support of The Examiner Merchandising Service Department

You'll find that genuine service is being rendered—an earnest intelligent service that will prove of immense value and helpfulness

The Examiner's circulation cultivates this Southwestern territory so intensively that you will soon be receiving dividends on your investment in this team work form of advertising which includes merchandising service co-operation in addition to the largest circulation of any newspaper within a radius of 500 miles

Los Angeles Examiner

The Los Angeles Examiner has the largest circulation of any morning and Sunday newspaper published in the Great Southwest, over 125,000 daily, and more than a quarter of a million copies Sunday. Our offices in Chicago and San Francisco are in the Hearst Buildings, in New York, 1834 Broadway.

By NICK FLATLEY.
 Connie Mack and his baseball changelings arrived in our midst today to play the national pastime at Fenway Park. Time was when Cornelius and his gang could be checked up as just as any other team for the other fellows. Those days were chronic tall tales, like the caboose on a freight, but look at them now.

The club has gone over, and is driving a lot of other clubs along the same road. They're up in the first division, and fighting along just as well as any other team in the league. The athletic Philadelphia has finally gathered himself quite a bunch of pitchers, and he has them going in big style.

His young athletes are exciting the ball, and have even hit bats just as easy to win with as to lose, and a lot more fun.

An even break over the first five weeks of the season's work indicates that Connie has made a great team that he has been promising for, in these many years.

The new A's have everything, including a pretender for the home run crown. Bing Miller, who came from Washington in the Juanita 100,000, is hitting away over .400, and getting the marbles beyond the barriers every now and then.

Bing has nine homers to his credit already, and he's not a late start. He whacks them in all directions, but shoots the big bombs toward left. It will be interesting to see what he can do to the scoreboard in these next few days.

Mack Mack claims that his team is no morning glory after the time and most of his managers are inclined to trail along. All Connie has lacked for a couple of years was the winning run in the hands of his hired men. They have it now. The Athletics will also have in the double-header against the Sox, which goes off to a four-game set on Saturday. That bargain will be followed by similar events Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, which is enough for anybody. Looks like a great future for the Red Sox pitchers.

The Senators to lose the Mack-Mack and get the Mack-Mack from the mound in the third, after getting the four runs. An error by Loring allowed Hall to reach first in the second inning after two were out. Mallett was given a free ticket, struck the base. John Monahan drove out a single to right, Hall and Bond were out.

BRVESHIP NIGHT OUT OF CELLAR POSITION

St. Louis, Mo., May 25.—Hood for East, traveling to New York in high spirits, P. L. Hood and his crew are bubbling over with their straight victories over the Cardinals, a pennant contender until the miracle men foused them with the four wallpops and started stepping up the National League ladder.

With yesterday's victory 5 to 3, they turned right side over to the Cardinals, a team that had been in the cellar for the week. The Braves, however, did not let the Cardinals' victory affect them. They were still confident of their position in the cellar.

Reveries to meet and nothing pleased the Braves as much this season as their sport against the Cardinals. They have not forgotten how Branch Rickey invaded the Hall of Fame for a one-puncher.

Then the Braves, withstanding their way to prominence, did not let the Cardinals' victory affect them. They were still confident of their position in the cellar.
